The programme for this conference will be open to any topics or areas within basic or applied plant virology, will include all current areas of interest to Plant Virologists and will consist of presentations by invited speakers as well as offered papers by conference delegates. It is hoped to hold a forum to discuss the future of plant virology around the world.

We welcome submissions from established researchers, post-docs and students. The meeting will include the student competitions as outlined below.

Invited speakers include top names from the USA, Italy, France and the UK.

Student Prizes

Student prizes will be awarded for the best platform (Bryan Harrison prize) and best poster (Raymond/Roger Hull prize).

You can submit your offer by completing the form opposite or via the web site below. Click on ABSTRACTS in the left hand column, and then click on the name of the conference. You will be asked to register your name and email and you will be sent a password. Once you have received this, you can upload a WORD file giving details of title, authors, affiliations, a short description of your paper and a note whether it is to be considered for a platform presentation or poster. Please indicate if this is a student presentation and you would like your offer to be considered for one of the prizes outlined above.

DEADLINE FOR CALL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS FORM IS 7 OCTOBER 2008
